Recommendation

Posted by Two Short Planks ★; Used on 1 October 2007

Chris Hunt is an architectural technician rather than an architect, and therefore comes a bit cheaper. We used him to design a large ground floor extension and to steer the plans through the local planning department and building control (all without incident). Chris also prepared a very comprehensive manual which allowed us to select a builder and to form a contract with the minimum of trouble. Chris speaks his mind and can ruffle feathers, but he knows his stuff and can be recommended. Not the cheapest, but you get what you pay for.
